Rejections Under 35 U.S.C. §102

Claims 1-16 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102(e) as allegedly being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,507,817 to Wolfe et al. ("Wolfe"). See Paper No. 23, pg. 2, ¶1. Applicants disagree with the rejections of claims 1-16 as set forth by the Examiner. However, solely in an effort to expedite prosecution, the claims have been amended to clarify various points of novelty over Wolfe.

In particular, independent claims 1 and 9 recite, inter alia, the features of generating a call request for a user from an active voice page and one or more style properties that are unique to the user, and placing an outbound telephone call to a voice-enabled terminal device of the user to initiate an interactive voice broadcast with the user. Wolfe does not appear to disclose at least these features.

By contrast, Wolfe appears to disclose a voice IP approval system that comprises a web-based voice messaging system for enabling text-based forms to be retrieved and acted on via a telephone. See Wolfe, e.g., Abstract. For example, a blank form (e.g., vacation request, cell phone or pager purchase request, purchase order, capital expense request, etc.) may be retrieved from a forms database 124 and presented by a web server 64' to a browser 56' for data input by a submitting party (the party seeking approval). The submitting party completes the form and posts the completed form to web server 64' for storage in a data store 122. See Wolfe, e.g., col. 5, lns. 60+. While Wolfe does disclose generating an HTML document to present the form to a subscriber (or approving party) in an audible format with audible prompts, Wolfe does not appear to disclose placing an outbound telephone call to the subscriber (approver) to present the form to the subscriber once the submitting party posts the completed form to web server 64.' Rather, the completed form is placed in data store 122 until an HTTP request from a subscriber is received:

With regard to form approval, the application server 66 receives, via the web server 64, HTTP requests from either a PC-based web browser 56 capable of supplying full media content (e.g., audio, text, images, and streaming video), or a lightweight or proxy browser 62 configured for serving as an HTTP interface for a user input device, such as a telephone 18, having limited media capabilities (e.g., audio only).

See Wolfe, col. 6, lns. 14-25, emphasis added.

For at least the reason that Wolfe discloses converting a text-based form into an audible format upon receiving an HTTP request from a subscriber, and not placing an outbound telephone call to the subscriber (approver) to present the form to the subscriber, Applicants submit that Wolfe neither explicitly nor impliedly discloses Applicants' claimed feature of placing an outbound telephone call to a voice-enabled terminal device of the user to initiate an interactive voice broadcast with the user. As such, the rejection of independent claims 1 and 9 should be withdrawn.

Applicants submit that dependent claims 2-8 and 10-16 are allowable because they depend from allowable independent claims, as well as for the further limitations they contain.
